Daily Thought.

"Ability carries with it responsibility and responsibility increases in the ratio of opportunity."

It is a strange freak of fortune that has robbed Ohio of her governor and returned the Buckeye state to her old allegiance before the new regime has had opportunity to firmly establish itself. Governor Pattison's death in a sense is unfortunate in more ways than unusually attend the death of a man in public office. The end came before he could put into practice the promises he had made in the campaign, and his successor, coming from the opposite party and elected on a different platform, can not be expected to carry out the plans formulated by the administration. How far the strength of Pattison and the weakness of his opponent figured in the result of the state election is only guessed at. Factional dissensions and the fight on Cox in Cincinnati, probably had more to do with it, as the remainder of the Republican state ticket was elected. The remarkable campaign in which Governor Pattison was elected in the face of apparently overwhelming odds attracted national attention and served as the text for much moralizing, the lesson deduced depending on the point of view and political bias of the observer. Since his inauguration Governor Pattison had been a bed-ridden, helpless man, unable to assume active management of executive affairs and confining his efforts to such routine matters as demanded his signature. His successor already has been inducted into office and he is a Republican. That may or may not be good news to Ohio Republicans. It depends on the answer to the question: Who is Harris? This question he himself will have to answer. Kentuckians know that lieutenant governors are not always chosen with an eye single to their possible succession. The new governor of Ohio is fortunate in two regards: He was not elected governor and, consequently, made no embarrassing ante-election promises, and he steps in almost at the beginning of a four-year term. In that time he has an opportunity to make his future great. May Ohio's new governor prove equal to the emergency

Paducah soon is to put the "lid" on the garbage. The board of aldermen probably will take the necessary action and then the garbage removal department will be in active operation. After that it will not be necessary to spread the refuse in a thin coating over the surface of the alley or bury it in the gutter. And while we are on the subject, wouldn't it be just as convenient to get regular garbage receptacles with lids to them, so that when they are set out at the curbing for the garbage collector, they will not present the ugly spectacle common in so many cities, where open boxes and cans are used, and where stray dogs revel in the rich depths of the discarded

Teacher: "Now, Patsy, would it be proper to say 'You can't learn me nothing'?"
Patsy: "Yis'm."
Teacher: "Why?"
Patsy: "'Cause yer can't."

ed good things from the family table?

And Wadsworth got his. Then he hustled back to New York to look after some gaps in his political fences. In the meantime, the committee on agriculture decided to reconsider the meat inspection bill, confer with the department and afterwards submit the measure to the approval of the executive before reporting it to the house. Thus it goes with naughty little boys in congress, who "make faces" at the president. It also demonstrate how one courageous honest man can dominate just as long as he retains those two qualities and just to the extent of their purity.

Paducah now has a sure enough fire department, such as Chief Wood can take pride in. The general council has displayed the liberality of wisdom in equipping the department, and this recalls the fact that it is about time to make a reduction in insurance rates for Paducah.

By a successful operation performed in Boston thirty-six nails were removed from the stomach of a "human ostrich," but press reports fail to state whether the operation was performed by a carpenter or a chiropractor.

Kansas farmers in their desperation are emptying the jails to secure farm hands. When the Kansas jails are empty, we have some jails in Kentucky that need emptying.

The action of the board of councilmen in calling to the attention of the board of public works the necessity of flushing the gutters on Broadway was wise.

John D. Rockefeller has a standing offer of 25 cents for every snake killed on his county estate. Let us hope no one slays the octopus by mistake.

TRAVELING EXPENSES.

The American people are not close and whoever thinks the objection against allowing our presidents $25,000 a year for traveling expenses is raised from any parsimonious feeling, has broadly missed the real reason. We see in it only an exhibition of the great good common sense of the American, who, somehow, cannot see the necessity of giving a man, who already receives $50,000 a year, an additional $25,000 for traveling expenses. But, if the real reason is sought, it would be found to be that Americans have not yet gotten away from an idea exhibited early in our national life, that luxurious living in high places is dangerous. The American knows that the president may travel as cheaply as the commonest citizen on the railroads, and that any traveling he may care to do, unless he accompanies it with a large amount of pomp and show, can not only be done on much less than $25,000 but could be paid for out of his regular salary without bankrupting him. The danger is this: That if we attempt to support our presidents in a style competitive with the private wealth of the nation, we will start on a road that will sooner or later drag down the presidency from the broad-minded simplicity it now possesses. Of all things it is essential that American official life remain free from the degenerating influences of luxurious living. COMMUNICATED.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Since Mr. James Wilhelm has seen fit to whip a third party over the shoulders of The Sun, I beg your indulgence for the purpose of making plain the situation. As he takes upon himself the burden of The Sun's assertion about "a member of the board of public works," so I may feel that I am the unnamed person in his venomous article. Now, I assert that Mr. Wilhelm is the one person responsible for the removal of the band stand from the end of the market house. I care not what other city officials may have said or how others of the board have regarded the matter, I firmly believe that but for Mr. Wilhelm's bitter opposition to the project, permission to allow the structure to remain would finally have been granted. The ardent championship by the editor of the Register might be proof ordinarily, but the circumstances I contended with have thoroughly convinced me; and it would take a direct, strong denial by Mr. Wilhelm to shake my belief in my conclusions.

If public opinion has forced Mr. Wilhelm to evade the responsibility with which I charge him, he needs must convince people that without his active opposition—which he can not deny—the desired permission would not have been granted.

Mr. Wilhelm seems very fond of using "forcible" language, in calling people liars, thieves, assassins, etc., whether to parade his physical courage and prowess, or for the theatrical effects such words have on people of certain classes, one can not tell, but we will try and bear in mind that common phrases have little weight, and that it is very common for the editor of the Register to apply "malicious" epithets.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space you accord me, I am
Yours respectfully,
WM. DEAL.

How the Blood Flow Affects Health.

Few people appreciate the necessity of keeping the blood in every way in good condition if they would have good health.

There are two factors in disease, which, by an endless variety of changes and combinations, define every departure from normal conditions. These are the BLOOD and the NERVES. They sustain life, and END it.

The blood must maintain a steady, swift and equal flow or bad consequences follow. Every organ and tissue must get its right share of blood, no more, no less. Stop it and the system is soon poisoned with accumulated body sewage, and lack of proper nourishment gets up, headaches, tired, worn out sensations, no life, no energy and other kindred ailments follow.

Right the blood flow, and they all leave. This is the Osteopathic theory. It merely goes back to the beginning of disease. It finds most disease is associated with an abnormal blood flow.

Especially during the summer months it is necessary to keep the blood flow right. Exercise of the right sort is a good stimulant for circulation, but the dry hot air treatment, followed by the Osteopathic treatments, which I am giving with such marked good results, is the best treatment yet discovered.

Why? Simply because they go to the basis.

Come to see me at any time and I can easily satisfy you that I can soon build up the run-down system, while you are attending to your usual duties. I shall, too, be pleased to refer you to people you know well who are enthusiastic in their praises of the treatments.

My office hours are from 8 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 4 p. m.

JUDGE'S BUSY DAY IN COUNTY COURT

Juvenile Cases Come up For the First Time.

Shifting of Constables in Two Districts Necessitated By Illness of Officer.

JUDGE LIGHTFOOT RETURNS

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot returned yesterday afternoon from Creal Springs, where he had been for a week resting up, and is greatly improved. He has shaved off his mustache and looks ten years younger. There was a great deal of accumulated business for the judge to attend to and he dived into it the first thing this morning.

The Juvenile Court.

Monday in police court Maple Smith, colored, and Frank Waggoner, juveniles charged with horse stealing and petty larceny respectively, were "held over to the juvenile court" by Police Judge Sanders. This made it "up to the county judge" for action and Judge Lightfoot gave out his first statement, regarding his intentions as judge of the juvenile court.

"Of course, there is no juvenile jail or special place to keep prisoners in this court, but I doubt if we need one," he explained. "My views of the juvenile court bill and its enforcement can be briefly stated. It is a good law taken as a law and I will take pleasure in discharging the duties of the judicial officer. When a boy is brought to me charged with any crime, if he is proven guilty, and there is the least excuse for an illegal action on the part of a prisoner, I will deal with him with all leniency and will give him another chance."

"I do not know what I will do with these two boys held over to me yesterday. I will look into the case today and will decide at once."

Constables Changed.

Judge Lightfoot found it necessary to make changes in the offices of constables. Phil Hisey, constable in the Second district, is ill and has been unable to discharge the duties of the office. He has resigned. Constable B. F. Sears had been acting for him, but the question of Sears' competency to act in the Second district was raised. To prevent complication Judge Lightfoot accepted his resignation and appointed him a deputy to J. J. Lane in the Fifth district. This was done on motion of J. J. Lane.

Judge Lightfoot then appointed D. F. Horton, of Kentucky avenue near Fourth street, to succeed Constable Hisey. He will be sworn in today on making bond.

Denatured Alcohol.

On May 24 the senate passed by a unanimous vote the bill which provides for the freeing from taxation after January 1, 1907, of denatured alcohol used for industrial purposes. The bill had previously been passed by the house, where it was opposed chiefly by the manufacturers of wood alcohol. This substance is to be used as an adulterant, however, to make the alcohol unfit for drinking. According to the provisions of the new law, the adulterating or denaturing of the alcohol is to be done in the various factories under the supervision of an internal revenue officer.

By removing the tax from industrial alcohol our government has effectively put a stop to the domination of the oil trust over the use of liquid fuel for light, heat, and power. In Germany and France devices for using denatured alcohol for these purposes have already been perfected and placed in actual use, and their adoption in this country will no doubt come quickly as soon as industrial alcohol is on the market. As this fuel can be produced from many vegetable products that have heretofore gone to waste, and that, too, at a considerably lower price than is obtained for gasoline and kerosene today, there need never be any fear of lack of fuel, even should the coal measures all become exhausted and the supply of natural oil cease.

The new fuel, besides being cleaner and less volatile, will, when used in suitably-designed internal combustion motors, develop about as much power per gallon as will the oil, while for light and heat it is far superior. Its introduction will create a new market for the farmers of our country, while they will benefit directly from it also by using it themselves for the production of light and power.—Scientific American.

Cave in Kentucky.

A cave on the Kentucky border near from Jellico is the latest discovery. The claim is made that it has been explored nine miles thus far.
